THE Indiana legislature has enacted a libel law which should find its way to the statute books of every state in the Union. The new measure provides that before suit is brought the aggrieved shall serve notice on the publisher three days prior to that time, and if it is shown that the article appeared in good faith and its falsity was a mistake, and a retraction is made, the plaintiff can recover only the actual damages sustained. Such a law would work wonders.

A London Paper Gives the Details of the Massacre.

FEARFUL OUTRAGES CONFIRMED.

The Pit of Death Described-Dead and Alvie Buried Together-Turks Trying to Destroy Evidence-The Armenians Threaten Terrible Revenge.

LONDON, March 1.—The correspondent that paper full details of the recent massacre of Armenians by Turks and Kurds. His story which was obtained from Armenian refugees, confirms the worst details of the outrages, including the statement concerning the pit in the village of Djellegoozan. The correspondent declares that 100 men, women and children were bayoneted by Turks and their bodies thrown into the pit. Many of the victims were still alive when they were cast in, but they were buried with the dead. The correspondent then tells of the attempts to destroy the damnable evidence of the pit, how the Turks poured petroleum on the festering mass and then set fire to it, and how, when this failed, they diverted a mountain stream to wash away the traces of their crime.

A fugitive priest was caught by a number of the fiends, who killed him and then cut his body into small pieces. Many women committed suicide by throwing themselves from precipices in order to escape death or dishonor at the hands of their enemies.

The refugees denounce the Turks as being far worse than the Kurds. The latter only killed, while the Turks committed the most horrible brutalities on the living and the dead. The refugees threaten terrible revenge on the Turks in the coming spring. They tell a mar-velous story of the heroic death of Krikor, elder of the village of Shenik, who, with his own hand, killed 21 Turks before the Turks succeeded in killing him. As he fell dead, they say, a great hight flashed thrice in the sky. This token convinced the peasantry that they would have the help of heaven in avenging his death and the massacre of so many of their relatives and friends.

AN OLD WOMAN IN LUCK.

She Is Entitled to the Estate of a Dead Chicago Millionaire. CHICAGO, March 1.-Attorney Beale of Georgetown, D. C., has discovered THE Toledo Blade is struggling to the aged woman who was the first wife an eccentric millionaire. She lives somewhere in Maryland and is over 80

The most extraordinary feature of this new phase of the McCaffery matter is that the discovery that the first wife of the dead millionaire is alive will cloud the title to millions of dollars worth of Chicago property, most of it situated in that part of the city known as the town of Lake. After reaching prosperity in Chicago, McCaffery, in common with other rich men, made a practice of investing his surplus money in the purchase of tax titles. In every one of these deeds McCaffery signed his name as a bachelor or the deed was joined in by one of the two women whom he is supposed to have married at different times in Chicago and who was universally recognized by him in all his business transactions as his wife.

The discovery at the present time that the original Mrs, McCaffery in not dead, of course gives her the dower interest not only in the present real estate be-longing to the McCaffery estate, but in foot of land that property on which taxes had been paid by him, after default by the real WASHINGTON, March 1.-The senate chamber was the scene of an extraordinary demonstration at the night session last night, beginning with sensational speeches and culminating with an exchange of personal epithets almost without parallel in the history of the senate. Mr. Chandler personally arraigned many Democratic senators.

Mr. Hill; responded, characterizing Mr. Chandler as a hyena for having dug up the private records of Senator Roach. Mr. Martin, who had been arraigned by Mr. Chandler, replied with intense bitterness, characterizing Mr. Chandler as a "buzzard," and declaring that if half was true that was charged against Chandler he should be in the penitentiary instead of the United States senate At times there was great confusion and leries. The mingled confusion, debate and excitement on the floor of the senate and in the galleries lasted until after midnight. The trouble was precipitated by the speech of Mr. Chandler on "Recent Election Methods of the Democratic excitement in the galleries, and the vice president threatened to clean the gal-them of obtaining their seats by fraud. Senators Roach (N. D.) and Martin (Kan.) received the severest arraign-He took up the investigation which the senate began as to the private record of Mr. Roach, once charged with embezzlement, and read from the congres sional record to show how action on the investigation had been avoided.

"And so," said Mr. Chandler, "the former cashier of the Citizens' National bank of Washington continues to oc cupy a seat as a Democratic senator."

Mr. Chandler then reviewed in detail the proceedings of the Kansas legisla-ture in the election of Martin, and declared that it made as vicious a record as was ever presented in electioneering Mr. Hill turned his attention to Mr. Chandler's reference to Mr. Roach. He (Hill) could have forgiven the attack on

"Honest" John Martin.
"But," said he, "I can never forgive the cruel, mean, contemptible, malicions attack on Senator Roach.

Mr. Hill referred ironically to Mr. Chandler's statement that he spoke of the subject with regret. He would as soon expect the hyenia in pouncing on its victims to pause with regret. And yet the New Hampshire senator had "spewed out" this miserable and contemptible attack. He had revamped an old and ancient charge, outlawed by the statute of limitation, a charge never sustained in a court or by a jury.

Mr. Hill drew a striking picture of the coming and going of Mr. Roach from the senate chamber, his plain and and quiet habits. And yet the malice of the New Hamshire senator had "hyenia like" assailed this poor man. Mr. Hill said he "hated hypocrits." He referred to the "fraud by which the great Samuel Tilden had been kept from the presidental chair." Then, towning to Mr. Chandler he added: "We turning to Mr. Chandler, he added: "We all remember the course of our friend Chandler at that time in going to Florida and stealing that state from the

Mr. Martin (Kan.) then replied to Mr. Chandler's reference to him. Mr. Martin said no honest man had ever ques tioned his right to his seat. No man had ever charged that he had bought his seat in the senate, but could the sen ator from New Hampshire say as much? If one-half was true that was charged against the senator from New Hamp shire, "instead of being in the United States senate, he should be in the peni-tentiary." Instead of the eagles that had represented the great state of New Hampshire, "a buzzard had taken their

Mr. Roach was several moments on his feet, during which time he declared to senatorial friends that he would reply to Mr. Chandler, but was persuaded to refrain from so doing.

Mme. Modjeska, the well-known actress, has been forbidden to appear at the Warsaw theater, because, while at Chicago, she lectured at the World's Fair on Russian Rockford "Christ," who has always heretofore co-operated with Mr. Stewart on the silver question. Mr. Wolcott severely arraigned the Nevada senator for his intolerance on financial questions. Mr. Stewart commanded only 10 votes for his 16 to 1 ratio amendment, most of the leading cilvar men. Democrats and Republicans, This was opposed by Mr. Wolcott, who has always heretofore co-operated silver men, Democrats and Republicans, voting against it. It was expected that a further contest would be made against the sugar bounty payments, but the reserved vote was not insisted upon.

IRON EXPERTS INTERESTED.

A Number In Springfield Examining George Harley's New Process.

SPRINGFIELD, O., March 1.-Experts have been here from all parts of the country the past two weeks examining the discovery of George Harley in revolutionizing the manufacture of iron Capitalists from Chicago, Detroit and elsewhere are here to invest in produc ing malleable iron direct from the mold ing maneable from the like cast iron.

The Harley Iron company already has $1,000,000 capital, with furnaces and extensive experiment works, where Harley has been working for years, backed by enthusiastic believers in the patent. One of these backers, G. C. Hall of New York, has gone to Chicago for Harley. If the making of the iron proves as great a success commercially proves as great a success commercially as it has experimentally, the discovery will be the greatest since that of Besse mer. Specimens of the malleable iron produced by the process were submitted to experts in Chicago without telling them that it had been produced direct from the mold. The iron was pronounced first-class.

CINCINNATI, March 1.-W. I. Squires of Toledo is reported missing. Wednes day afternoon his wife, who was at her home in Toledo, received a dispatch from someone who signed himself Dr. Jones, Grand Hotel, Cincinnati, stating that her husband was injured and for her to come to him. She and her son came here, but when she reached the Grand Hotel she was informed that they knew of no Dr. Jones, that Mr. Squires was not stopping there, and that they knew nothing of him. Mrs. Squires then saw the chief of police. All the police and a host of friends have searched the city in vain. The last seen of Squires here was when he attended the state convention of Repub

Crockery dealers all over the country are objecting because the department stores are taking their trade. They say that a dry goods store can afford to sell crockery cheap, because it brings a crowd to their place of business, and they can make up their cash on some other article. This has done much to demoralize the retail crockery trade, and the howl from the dealers is beyond conception. They say they could stand it if times were not so hard and trade so dull.

Feb. 28, 1864, Bearding was the date of one the Lion In of Torpedo Cushing's famous ex-His Den. ploits in Cape Fear river. In order to convince his superior that a certain plan he had matured was feasible he offered to bring the enemy's commander to breakfast on board the admiral's flagship. With 20 men in two boats he pulled past Fort Caswell and the batteries at Bald Head, in the mouth of the river, and landed at Smithfield, where the Confederate headquarters were located. Hiding his boats and their crews within 25 yards of a battery, he went with two men to the house oc cupied by General Hebert, passing through the main street of the town. Near the house were 1,200 enemies sleeping in their barracks. It was past midnight before the house grew still and lights were put out. Cushing left his comrades on the porch, and entering the unbolted door crept up stairs to the general's room, which had been located for him by a negro familiar with the house. With his hand on the door he was startled by a crash below and a cry from one of his men. Springing down the steps, he found that his comrades, in overconfidence, had alarmed the adjutant general, who hoisted a window and then brought it down on a Union revolver which looked him in the face. Cushing leaped into the room with a lighted taper and dragged from bed a dazed sleeper, who proved to be Hebert's chief engineer, Captain Kelley. From him he gleaned that the general, like
